

NSF-REU UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH OPPORTUNITIES SUMMER 2026

The Keck Geology Consortium REU announces paid research internships during SUMMER 2026. Interested students are encouraged to explore the exciting project opportunities at keckgeology.org. See website for application information.

Completed Applications Due: 16 FEBRUARY 2026

2026 Gateway Research Projects

(for rising sophomores interested in exploring opportunities in science)

Community-Engaged Assessment of Groundwater Chemistry and Quality in the Karst Aquifers of Rockbridge County and the Neighboring areas in Virginia

Director: Dr. Madhumita Chakraborty (Washington and Lee University)

No. Participants: ~6 students

Dates & Location: 15 June - 19 July 2026; Lexington, Virginia

Professional conference: 11-14 October, 2026; Denver, Colorado

Exploring a Late Cretaceous Terrestrial Ecosystem: The Almond Formation, Southwestern Wyoming

Director: Dr. Kristi Curry Rogers and Dr. Raymond Rogers (Macalester College)

No. participants: ~8 students

Dates & Locations: 10 June - 14 July 2026; St. Paul (MN) and Rock Springs (WY)

Professional conference: 11-14 October, 2026; Denver, Colorado

Keck Geology Consortium seeks applicants from a wide range of experiences, perspectives, and backgrounds. Participants must be U.S. citizens or green card holders.

For more information, visit keckgeology.org or contact info@keckgeology.org.

